Water Rights

The waters of Nevada are a vital resource for today's needs and to support development in the future. We are the stewards of our water and related land resources. How we develop, protect, conserve, and share them is critical for Nevada's future. Water is extremely limited in Nevada and the rights to appropriate and put it to use are complicated. All water within the boundaries of the state, whether above or beneath the surface of the ground, belongs to the public and is subject to appropriation for beneficial use through the Nevada State Engineer's office.

RCI is well into its 5th decade of providing water rights services throughout Nevada. RCI provides water rights assistance, support, and advice to individuals, corporations, attorneys, title companies, utilities, and public entities in all phases of Nevada water from Applications to Appropriate, to the most complex analysis and review. RCI's experienced water rights staff provides complete client services from Application through Beneficial Use.

RCI is skilled in the areas of water rights evaluation and analysis as well as determination of water rights ownership and water title. RCI supports attorneys and legal representatives providing analysis, expert testimony, and support for due diligence, litigation, hearings, and all aspects of water rights. Services are tailored to meet the needs of the client and include comprehensive water rights management, administration, recommendations, and evaluations as needed by the client.
